Mark F. Boff

Realtor®

You have likely heard the old adage 'you can never go home again'. Well, after being away from Adrian for almost 40 years, Mark is working hard to show that may not always be the case.

During the time Mark was away from Adrian, his work life and time spent volunteering in his community allowed him to forge relationships with people from all walks of life. Mark has worked with mechanics, utility contractors, business owners, nurses, physicians, attorneys, hospital executives and real estate developers. He has also helped mentor high school students, coach youth sports teams and host foreign exchange students from Brazil, Italy and Pakistan.

Mark has worked with people in large metropolitan areas and small rural towns, from upstate New York to Southern Alabama. As a Realtor in Pennsylvania, Mark assisted landlords in managing their rental properties as well as working with a local builder and clients who needed to buy and sell new or previously owned homes.

When Mark made the decision to move back to his place of birth and opted to continue practicing Real Estate, Mark reached out to The Wagley Group. Joe Wagley was an old high school teammate, as well as an old friend. Joining The Wagley Group provided the opportunity to rekindle old friendships in the area along with forming new ties with others who may need his assistance and experience. While much did change while he was away, there is still much that is familiar. One thing that is the same wherever one resides is the need people have for safe, secure, appropriately priced housing. Whether it be buying your first home or selling the home in which you raised your family, Mark looks forward to helping you achieve your real estate goals.
